Writing

Hello everybody, My name is Zhenis Aruzhan. Today I want to tell (some) about some habits that students doing before exams. For me, they seems very strange. So lets start.

Yeah, we know every student ~~strest~~ stress about exams. And do not be worry. It is a simple thing. One of my friend often eats dark chocolate to feel herself good. I do not know why, but it works perfectly. She told that ~~to~~ it is good and usefull for our brain. It workes faster and raise hormones which answer to ~~ea~~ human's mood. For instance, yesterday she passed her chemistry exam and got a good mark. I was glad when saw her very excited. But, we need to mention that she study hard all the time. And this habit just helped her to feel her calmer. It does not say that if you ate a dark chocolate you will pass your exam. It is effect only for your feelings.

To sum up, This habit is usefull for those people who always worried and stressed about exam. Just prepare for it and eat some dark chocolate like my friend. I wish you a good luck.

Writing.

There are a lot of objects that I use daily. All of them are useful, but if I had to choose something specific particular, it would be my headphones.

One of the main reasons is music. I enjoy it every day without exceptions. However, I do not want to bother someone while listening to it, so headphones truly save me. I can do my chores, walk, rest with music and do not disturb people. It also makes me calmer and clears my mind.

Another benefit is privacy. When someone sends me a voice message I can just ^{use} (wear) my headphones, so ~~no one~~ will hear it. In addition, they can be used when people want to feel isolated in crowded places.

However, there are some drawbacks in terms of safety. People might get hurt on roads while passing them. Without ability to hear what is happening around, they might not hear sounds of cars and it is really dangerous.

Moreover, listening to music on high volume can damage ears. This mostly happen with children who wear headphones 24/7, even while sleeping. (It makes people not only deaf) It not only makes people deaf, but also leads to ear injuries.

Overall, there are both advantages and disadvantages in using headphones, but I still find them useful. In my opinion, people just need to learn using them properly and it will not cause any harm.

Hello Jake!

How are you? I haven't seen you for ages!

That's really good news! Yes, I participated in a similar project last year. To be honest, I would ~~also~~ recommend you to take part in a cultural exchange week and don't lose such opportunity.

When I decided to take part in a cultural exchange week I was also terrified and doubt about my participation. In fact, it was very amusing and had left many memories and experiences.

To begin with, I made new friends and strengthened my relationships with other people from various backgrounds. I have learned about other people's culture, traditions and even found out more about their national food and language. Personally, I consider that I broke my language barrier while communicating with English-speaking friends. Moreover, we could share our interests, have conversations for hours and were on the same wavelength regardless of our ethnicity ^{and} nationality. Despite building relationships, ~~a~~ school organized a lot of activities in a team or individual. These activities such as debates, performing in front of the public by presentation or showing your talent. In my opinion, I could overcome all the challenges, fears and grew personally. I ^{realized} ~~noticed~~ what I am really capable of and noticed all my potential in different fields. Additionally, I became more open, confident, friendly and responsible, which demonstrate the value of this project.

Regarding host family, you shouldn't be afraid of living with another family. At first, it may ~~seem~~ seem difficult to live in unknown place with different people who surround you, but you will get used to their life routine and get along with them. They will become one of the most crucial people in your life by supporting, helping and teaching life lessons.

So, I would like to give you several tips if you are signing up. First of all, just be yourself and feel free. It will facilitate your time there by experiencing everything to the fullest. Secondly, it is fine if you worry about exchange week in advance, because it will be your first time taking part in such event. You will learn many things and experience cultural differences and have unforgettable moments there. ~~So~~ Actually, I hope that my advice ~~could~~ ^{will} help you somehow and I wish you good luck spending time there!

A) Skill, that you need

Nowadays skills aren't just you can be proud of, but an essential parts of every teenager and person. Skills can show your unique identity, possible hobbies and interests you have or ~~had~~ had, hence instantly making you more interesting in the community. Skills are different, of course, but there is one skill that is extremely necessary and which impact on your development is significant: the language knowledge.

The language knowledge is not often considered as a skill, only being something you're good at, however here's the point. This skill ~~develops~~ develops as learn and read various literature on foreign language. It works very simple: the more languages you know, the more advantages there will be. For example, you can find new friends abroad, or listen to the music with understanding and even read different books and texts on their home language, sharing ^{your} thoughts with the author's. You ~~may~~ may ask, though: what if it's hard and not even interesting? Even though learning seems boring, you can always find your own way to learn! You can involve chatting, playing video games or watching videos online (even ~~length~~ length). Basically, everything you want that would help you to turn difficulties into motivation!

So, even though natural sciences are more preferable in modern schools, ~~you~~ ^{you} shouldn't forget that this skill is what you'd probably need later, because it's not only about talking and knowing, it's about forming yourself.

Topic B

There once was a boy named Tom, a totally average student, just a bit lazy sometimes. Tom was never an active person at school, ignoring competitions and olympiads, until one day his math teacher made an announcement.

"Who would like to participate in a mathematics competition next week?" he asked. Tom disliked math, so he stayed silent. "I will grant each participant an 'A+' " the teacher added. A free "A +" sounded wonderful! Tom immediately agreed, expecting to simply go to the contest, answer randomly and come back to a good grade.

When the results arrived, Tom was shocked. He earned the first place! His whole school (congratulations) cheered for him. Then his math teacher said: "For such great results I will send you to another competition, this time even more important. And don't you dare fail it, or I will give you an 'F' on your final exam!"

Tom was terrified. He had to spend two weeks learning math in order to not fail the contest and his exam grade. In the end, Tom managed to get a place, (and) but he was totally exhausted after. After that, Tom promised himself that he would never make the same mistake again.

It is important that people choose a career when they are still quite young Choosing a career is the most significant decision in human life. People usually choose their career at a young age. Actually, it is important to decide what will be your future job exactly in young age.

Many of us picked their career when they were only 16 to 20. Although, sometimes we change our mind and switch our major. But it is not bad to choose a career at school time or in an university life.

Due to the fact, that being young means having energy and good willingness to work and study. Why would anyone in 30s or 40s choose their career? I believe that being young is convenient factor of making a decisions. Because when you are young you have plenty of time to think, to look around and ask for a help. But when you are old you will not have enough time.

Some people think that young people are not able to think or choose in right way. I think whereas people young or old they can not be fully smart or wise enough to make totally right decision. Moreover, there can be unintelligent adult and intelligent teenager. From psychological approach, many scientists say that youngsters have extremely higher results in motivation and enthusiastic mood for finding their purpose in life than adults over 27.

To conclude, choosing a career is undoubtedly important thing in life and making it in young age is not a mistake but right to do.

It is widely believed that you should choose a career when you fully grew up, but I disagree with that. It is important that people choose a job when they are still quite young.

Numerous individuals might think that the best time for choosing a career is when you ~~finish~~^{get} university degree or even older. It is not wrong to assume that this age is good for planning and choosing, but I have a different opinion. I think, that career which was chosen in your childhood or in school, is that one which you truly want to have. Reason for that is individuals tend to lie about their truly dreams and goals, which is the most crucial in choosing a career. Brown people might choose a wrong career only for a high salary or other reasons, but the ^{one and} only reason in choosing is do you really like it or not. That is the most important. In childhood we choose a job, which we truly like. It is because children does not have not any responsibilities and does not have to pretend that he likes something. The true is childrens choose with their heart.

In conclusion, everybody should choose what they are really want to do.
